If Not Something Like This, Then a State Constabulary Bill Is the Idea of the Senator From Canandaigua-No Chance of a Sunday Beer Law This Year.

Senator John Raines, the Republican leader of the State Senate, who was in town yesterday, brought with him from Albany two propositions about the New York Police Department. One was the passage of a State constabulary bill and the other the conversion of the police force into a regular military organization, with military courts-martial and enlistments. "If the police conditions in this city," he said, "continue much longer as they are, the time must come when the police must pass under State control. While I have never advocated the State constabulary scheme, it is apparent that something must be done in the way of bringing about a change, either by a constabulary bill or some other measure. If conditions like those in New York city prevailed up or some other measure. If conditions like those in New York city prevailed up the State, the people would rise up and demand a change. Even if the Democrate at some time happened to be in control at Albany, supervision of the police by the State would be a good thing, for if things went wrong in this city the whole State would take a hand in the matter, and it would be up to the State authorities to provide a remedy.

The second suggestion of Senator Raines was thus described by him:

"But there is one plan that might be tried before we adopt State control and that is what I want to talk about with Commissioner MgAdoo. I know him, having served with him in Congress, and I want to present my views to him. By an amendment to the Charter we may control the New York city police on a strict military basis. I am not prepared to say what provision for the future should be made for the present force, but all men added to the force I would have enlisted for a term of five years, as men enlist in the United States Army. The privilege of reenlistment for periods of five years I would make conditional on good records and competence. Alloffences against discipline or good behavior I would have tried by a court-martial composed of officers of the force, the findings subject to review by the head of the department. But I would so amend the law that a man once dismissed from the action of the head of the department.

"I don't know that this suggestion will be of the department.

"I don't know that this suggestion will be acceptable to the present Comissioner and Mayor, but it is to be discussed at Albany Mayor, but it is to be discussed at Albany this winter. There may or may not be such a bill. I would not say at this time that a bill providing for State control will be introduced at this session, but the plan will be considered and I repeat that unless the present system is changed the time will come soon when State control will be necessary. I hope that the military system that I have suggested will receive the fullest consideration before we take up the question of State control.

consideration before we take up the question of State control."

Concerning the liquor tax law Senator Raines said there would be some changes made in the act this winter. What those changes are to be he said had not been finally decided upon, but he explained that they would be only minor amendments, in the nature principally of readjustment of the license fees in the smaller cities. Asked if there was to be an amendment for partial Sunday opening in this city Mr. Raines said emphatically that there would not be.

"No amendment to license the sale of liquor on Sunday," he said, "has any chance of becoming law while the present Governor is in office. Such propositions will not be considered by the Legislature."

NEW CLUB OF CONTRACTORS To Be Called the Master Builders' Assoclation-Its Purposes.

Sheehan, chairman of the meeting of general ALBANY INVITES THE MAYOR A call was issued yesterday by John R. contractors held at the Hotel Marie Antoinette on Friday night to form an association of general contractors, for a meeting two weeks from yesterday to effect a permanent organization and elect officers. In the meantime a committee has been appointed to call upon contractors who were not present and submit the plan to them. Chairman Sheehan said yesterday to a the City Has Power to Investigate, and, if Not, if it Approves of a Legis-

"We have received great encouragement from many of the largest contractors in the city, and the association will be a thor-oughly representative one. The idea is welcomed by independent contractors who welcomed by independent contracts who have been hampered for years by petty restrictions of associations in special trades which make it difficult for them to obtain material. The organization will be called the Master Builders' Association. A question to be decided will be as to where the line is to be drawn as to eligibility. For instance, there are general contractors who make a specialty of building bridges. The general scheme is to have the association composed of master builders, as they are generally known. Whether contractors who build bridges alone will be eligible has to be decided on "."

There was a rumor yesterday that the George A. Fuller Company was about to follow the example of the Thompson-Starrett Company and reemploy its locked out carpenters. When Paul Starrett, a brother of Theodore Starrett and presi-dent of the Fuller Company, was fold of

New Building in Baltimore to House the Famous Collection in That City.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 21.-Henry Walters, who was in Baltimore to-day, made public for the first time his plans in connection with the building of a new art gallery to house the famous Walters collection. Several years ago he purchased all the property on the west side of Washington place. The purchase was for the purpose of pro-viding a suitable building for the art col-

Mr. Walters said to-day:

Mr. Walters said to-day:

"The work of tearing down the buildings on the site will begin about March 1, and the construction of the new structure will follow immediately. The fire delayed the plans, as many of my friends were in need of temporary quarters, and the buildings have been occupied for this purpose.

"The plans are now finished for the new building, with the exception of some exterior changes. It will be a series of galleries, with a court in the centre. Indiana limestone will be used and the building will be two stories in height. The upper story will have skylights and the first story sidelights, there being an open space all around lights, there being an open space all around the building. mittee of the Assembly, sent this letter hospital. yesterday to Mayor McClellan:

of New York: DEAR SIR: Several joint resolutions have been introduced in Senate and Assembly requesting the appointment of a committee for the purpose of investigating generally the gas and electric light situation in the city of New York. We enclose a copy of one of such resolutions, and the others are of a similar character.

At the request of a number of citizens and associations of the city of New York, we have granted a joint hearing upon all such resolutions, and appointed Wednesday, Jan. 25, 1905, at two (2) o'clock in the afternoon, and the Senate Finance Committee room as the place for the holding of such hearing.

We would consider it a favor for you to appoint such person or persons as you may desire to appear in behalf of the city of New York at such hearing, or, if such a course is not desired by the government of the city of New York, to favor us with a reply in writing to the following inquiries:
First-Has the government of the city of

New York sufficient authority at the present time to make all proper and needful investi-

Second-If it has not such authority, does it request and approve the adoption of a joint resolution by the Legislature to make such nvestigation on their behalf? Third-What subjects for investigation should the resolution cover?

NEITHER CAN HAVE DIVORCE.

"When Lily Langtry first came to America to play, Hagry had the rôle of Hastings in "She Stoops to Conquer." It involved embracing Mrs. Langtry. That event has been the happiest memory of his entire stage career."

While Dalton lay delirious on his deathbed, yesterday afternoon, he had tightly clasped to his breast a lace fan, on the hack of which was printed the cast of "She Stoops to Conquer.' It was one of the souvenirs given on the opening night of Mrs. Langtry's engagement, Mrs. Lowell said. ness. James W. Hawes, the referee appointed by the Supreme Court to pass upon both Maxwell's action and his wife's counter suit for divorce, has reached the conclusion that both suits should be dismissed.

The Maxwells were married in Hoboken, on July 14, 1901 and have no children. Maxwell is said to be the son of a wealthy storage warehouse owner. They got along fairly well together until about eighteen months ago, Maxwell, according to his wife, always making a point of a daily Bible reading and family prayers.

But Mrs. Maxwell concluded that he was paying too much attention to Mrs. Sarah Anderson, who has a printing establishment on Sixth avenue. Injunction to Prevent a Switch From Being Torn Up-Goulds Object. PITISBURG, Pa., Jan. 21.-The Pennsylvania and the Wabash railroads' lawyers were booked to-day for argument on the preliminary injunction which had been filed, served on the Pennsylvania line several days ago, to restrain it from lifting a switch at Bridgeville. Howard Gould o New York was on band in court to take care of the Gould interests, but the Pennsylvania people asked for and received a ntinuance of the case until next Saturday continuance of the case until next Saturday.

This was the case of last Friday, when young Gould got out an injunction and rushed the county Sheriff with it by his special train to Bridgeville, holding up the Pennsylvania. When asked about it to-day Mr. Gould said:

"The Wabash and the Pennsylvania people have been exchanging freight and courtesies at Bridgeville, where there was a small switch used by both lines. On Friday the Pennsylvania people without a word, began to tear up the switch, practically severing relations with us. I did not think this right and got out an injunction, and as there seemed no good way to get Sheriff Dickson there save by special train I had my train pulled out to Bridgeville."
